Thomas A. Harty.

Thomas A. Harty, 59, died at his home, 26 Prescott street, Torrington, at 8.45 o'clock Sunday night. Mr. Harty was taken ill with grip early last week. The attack weakened him to such an extent that complications set in and death was due directly to unsemble poisoning.

set in and death was due directly to uraemic poisoning.

Mr. Harty was born in Torrington Nov. 10, 1858, a son of Andrew and Julia O'Meara Harty. He attended the Torrington public schools and upon leaving school entered the employ of the Excelsior Needle company and soon rose to the position of foreman of one of the departments. He gave up his place at the factory in 1883 and entered the retail coal and wood business, in which he became very successful.

Mr. Harty was one of the most ness, in which he became very successful.

Mr. Harty was one of the most popular men in Torrington. In 1911 he was elected on the democratic ticket a representative in the general assembly. A year earlier he was elected treasurer of the borough and was re-elected in 1911. He was for many years a member of the democratic town committee.

He was a member of St. Francis church and of the Holy Name society connected with that church. He was a member also of the Torrington club and an honorary member of the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Mr. Harty married Oct. 3, 1900, Miss Elizabeth C. Higgins, daughter of the late Thomas and Elizabeth Hickey Higgins, of Terryville, and a sister of M. C. Higgins of Norwich. She survives him, with a daughter, Mary Elizabeth. The other survivors are a brother, Rev. Andrew F. Harty, pastor of St. Joseph's church, New Haven, and two sisters, Sister Mary Alphonsus of St. Francis' convent, New Haven, and Sister Mary Zita of the Sacred Heart convent, New Haven.

Upon United States if Monroe Doctrine is to be Maintained.

GEN. WM. A. ATKEN.

That justice, truth and righteousness stand naramount to the temporary saving of property, or even of human life, is the stand taken by General William A. Aiken in the paper which he delivered before the members of the Broadway Brotherhood at the January Tuesday evening.

Pacifism vs. Preparedness. The meeting opened with prayer of-fered by Rev. Edward S. Worcester, pastor of the church, and then General Alken read the following paper on Pacifism vs. Preparedness.

I fall to find a definition of "pacifism" or "pacificism" in my dictionaries; apparently a freshly coined word to parently a freshly coined word to which the world war gives currency. Its fullest application is to those who write and speak from this fundamental standpoint—"War is the sum of all evils; therefore, peace, at any price, is better." "War is hell—therefore, of course, to be avoided, at all costs." The logic of that interesting writer "Norman Angel" and of the Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson, whose works may Charles E. House Discovered by Letter Carrier

Tuesday evening at 8.16 o'clock the auto-pumper from the Central station and the auto-chemical from the Main street station responded to a telephone call for a fire in the boarding house at No. 118 Main street, conducted by Thomas R. Craney. The fire was in a bedroom on the attic floor and was confined to the woodwork of one of the windows. The window was burned out and the firemen were forced to use their axes to get at the seat of the flames. Forty-six gallons of chemical from the pumper and chemical from the auto-chemical extinguished the flames. pertinence" and some very significant acts of the German government have, at different times, gone to confirm this Letter Carrier Samuel Cramer discovered the fire as he was collecting mail from the box at the drug store of N. D. Sevin & Son. He told Emery Card, clerk in Sevin's store, who telephoned in to the Central station.

Mr. and Mrs. Craney were at the theatre at the time and were notified there from the state of the fire. The room where the fire s'arted was occupied by one of their Loarders, a tailor, and had matting on the floor. It is believed that a match or possibly a cigarette dropped into the matting accidentally might have started the fire. No one was in the room when the fire was discovered. at different times, gone to confirm this view.

The plea, so often urged in some quarters, that the exhaustion into which all the beiligerent powers will plunge themselves practically insures us against attack, is contradicted by our own experience within the memory of many now living. Did we not send a formidable armed force, after four years of strenuous fighting, to the Maxican border in warning to Napoleon Third, and did he not quickly reembark his army in consequence, thus leaving Maximilian to his sad fate? Whichever side wins in the great Whichever side wins in the great world struggle will have at command a seasoned force of trained warriors, ready, as ever, to obey orders, where-ever those orders may direct them to ever those orders may direct them to go.

As to Germany—she has now lost her colonies over the world. If she wins, it is doubtful whether she regains them. If she loses, she starts anew with her sixty million population on the world race for commercial activity and supremacy. In seeking markets she will seek new colonies in which she can dominate trade. Where are such inviting fields as in the temperate zones of the great Western Hemisphere? and that will bring her face to face with us and with the Monroe Doctrine which has just received its newest interpretation in President Wilson's message to congress delivered on December 7th in which he explicitly announces the United States as the protector of the liberties of "all the Americas." The fact that the twenty odd other "Americas" than ours have not endorsed the paternal scheme makes no difference. We announce it officially, to the nations of the world in the most formal and dramatic manner possible, and within one day of its announcement we get the first echoes of European epinion through the newspapers of our best friends and those most tolerant of the "Doctrine" in the past. The new interpretation they receive with grave doubts. If England doubts and questions, will the Continental Powers—especially Germany—be more friendly to it? Her past attitude, I think, gives The Vineyard Workers of the Central Baptist church met on Monday evening with Mrs. Adams P. tions, will the Continental Powers—especially Germany—be more friendly to it? Her past attitude, I think, gives us clue to an answer.

I am compelled to conclude that—peace loving as the president says we are—and as we certainly ought to be, this re-announcement of the Monroe Doctrine absolutely forces upon us the duty of prompt Preparedness.

This is certain. It cannot be controverted. The present Monroe Doctrine is either merely a scrap of bombastic paper, or it can be interpreted only in terms of ships, guns and men. Spoke of the Progress of the Order.

Baldwin of Providence, who addressed the meeting instructively upon the big business that the order is doing. Another stirring speech that was made during the evening was by George H. Stanton, past venerable consul of Ionic camp. He spoke in place of State Lecturer Connors, who was unable to be present.

Veneral Consul Thomas J. Broderick was master of ceremonies. There were musical selections by an orchestra and solos by Fred Racine and Arthur Campbell, as well as duets by the singers. Refreshments were served under the direction of the committee, which included Charles Bowers, Robert D'Zumbra and Arthur Campbell.

At Central Baptist Church on Last Sunday in January.

The B. Y. P. U. of the Central Baptist Church held their bi-monthly business meeting in Bushnell chapel on Tuesday evening with the president, Harry Covey, in the chair. There was a discussion on the plans for the service which the union is to conduct in the church on the last Sunday night in January. The subject at the evening is to be The Light in Africa and all the members will participate in the programme. A choir of sixty will lead the singing.

For that reason it seems to me that we have no alternative but promptly to prepare for any contingency.

I think this will be the view of the majority in the present congress. The contest will come over the question of methods and extent. And it will be methods and extent. And it will be a serious one.

Several plans for Preparedness have already come to the surface. By far the most modest and moderate is that described by the president in his message. I understand the general staff of the army has a more expensive and elaborate one, the details of which I have not seen; while Colonel Roosevelt swings the "big stick" with a much more radical programme in nature and
